Why study at UTS:INSEARCH?

By choosing UTS:INSEARCH, you will be taking your TESOL training course at the only university-based CELTA course provider in Sydney. Located in the centre of Sydney, UTS:INSEARCH has been conducting teacher training courses in English language teaching since 1992. We train over 60 teachers per year. UTS:INSEARCH also conducts specialised teacher training courses for overseas teachers of English, for local and offshore delivery.

Highly qualified and experienced training staff

You will be guided through the course by Cambridge-approved trainers who have taught in a wide variety of teaching environments, both overseas and in Australia. Most trainers have Masters degrees in Linguistics, TESOL or Adult Education as well as the Cambridge DELTA (Diploma in English Language Training to Adults).

Who are the courses for?

The courses at UTS:INSEARCH are suitable for anyone interested in:

- Receiving an internationally recognised TESOL teaching qualification
- Teaching English to adult international students in Australia
- Teaching English overseas.

"My work as a Cambridge CELTA tutor has provided me with the opportunity to help many trainees on the path to a new career both in Australia and overseas. My job satisfaction comes from seeing people develop on the course as confident, competent professionals."

David Noble
Manager, Teacher Training Department
M.Ed (Adult Education),
Dip. Teaching, Cambridge DELTA

University of Cambridge Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults

The Cambridge CELTA course will provide you with pre-service training in English Language Teaching to Adults. The course is practical, rather than academic, in nature and is designed as an introductory course for candidates who have little or no classroom experience in adult English language teaching. The certificate is an internationally recognised TESOL qualification and success in the course has enabled many people to obtain their first teaching position. The course is highly regarded by employers for providing sound, initial training.

UTS:INSEARCH conducts both full-time and part-time CELTA courses. The full-time courses are intensive and extend over four weeks. Participants are expected to devote several hours each evening to study and preparation in addition to day-time sessions. It is therefore important that you arrange to do the course at a time when you do not have other commitments. The part-time courses are less intensive and extend over ten weeks.

Candidates will need to dedicate a minimum of 80 hours for the required reading, research, pre and post-session tasks, assignments and lesson preparation. (Cambridge English Syllabus and Assessment Guidelines, 4th Edition.)

Course Description

The course aims to develop your skills in the following areas:

- Practical awareness of learners of language and of materials
- Practical ability in classroom management and lesson planning
- Effective delivery of a range of lesson types

Subject exemptions

After successfully completing the CELTA course at UTS:INSEARCH, you can gain subject exemptions in the postgraduate TESOL courses offered by the UTS Faculty of Education.

Course content

The course consists of three linked areas:

- Methodology
- Teaching Practice
- Written Assignments

In the methodology sessions, CELTA tutors introduce trainees to practical techniques for adult English language teaching. Areas covered include how to help learners develop their listening and speaking skills and how to help them with grammar and pronunciation.

Each trainee does assessed teaching practice for a minimum of six hours throughout the course. This takes place during two-hour sessions in which teaching is shared. Trainees teach classes of adult English language learners under the supervision of CELTA tutors.

Four written assignments are submitted by trainees during the course. These are practical assignments and are linked to methodology and teaching practice. They focus on areas such as language and skills development, adult learners and their learning contexts and trainee reflection on progress in teaching practice.

Assessment

There are two assessed components of trainees' performance on the course:

- Teaching Practice
- Written Assignments

Assessment is continuous and integrated, that is, assessment takes place throughout the course and each assessed component contributes to the overall grade. In addition, candidates are required to submit a portfolio of course work consisting of the four written assignments, lesson plans and materials related to practice teaching and other related documentation as specified by Cambridge English.

Employment opportunities

UTS:INSEARCH has experienced substantial growth in employment opportunities for new teachers, both in Sydney and our offshore centres in China, Indonesia, Myanmar and Vietnam. A preference is always given to UTS:INSEARCH CELTA graduates for teaching positions in these centres.

Facilities for CELTA trainees

- A learning centre with multimedia and computer facilities
- A dedicated teacher training library with multiple copies of recommended texts
- A fully-equipped staff room with complimentary tea and coffee available
- A UTS:INSEARCH Student Card that gives you a range of benefits and discounts.

Location

UTS:INSEARCH is conveniently located – just a five-minute walk from Central Station and Darling Harbour. This location provides trainees with easy access to public transport, Paddy's Markets and a wide range of shops and restaurants.

Catherine De Low
BA, MA (Applied Linguistics)
Cambridge CELTA

"I chose CELTA because of its strong reputation as a course that is recognised by high quality schools both in Australia and around the world. This was important for me as I wanted to make a career change and the UTS:INSEARCH CELTA course provided me with the qualifications I needed to enter the industry."

Nicolas Cobbin
B. Business (International Business)
Cambridge CELTA

"Doing CELTA was a practical, hands on experience that taught me the skills necessary to be successful in the education industry; as well as making some new friends."
